BEEKEEPING ON FARMS.

If Given Half a Chance Bees Yield Good Profits.
As to whether it will pay the average farmer to keep bees and produce honey on his place I would say that it will depend somewhat on circumstances, writes J. W. Rouse of Audrain county, Mo. I am sure it would pay any horticulturist to keep bees even if he never got any honey from them, as they are a great aid in causing the fertilization of fruit bloom. Many times one can secure some surplus honey from bees kept in gums or boxes, but if bees are kept in modern improved movable frame hives, rightly attended to, they pay an immense profit. In fact, I know of nothing on a place that will yield as good a profit as bees, as one not only gets the benefit of them in fruit growing, but sometimes they yield 200 pounds per colony of honey. I have had them do this in three different seasons, and many have done better than that, including some kept by Illinois farmers.

Three-week-old Josie Rybakiewicz of Horlick is the possessor of three hives. The bees do not seem to be suffering from the ailments usually connected with teething and is in the best of health.

While frying peanuts at the bakery of the G. H. Cross company in St. Johnsbury last week, N. B. Trussell had both hands badly burned by the fat catching fire. It will be some time before he will be able to work.

About 18 inches of snow fell last week Friday and Saturday in Hillwell, in the town of Enosburg. Several sugar makers, who had gathered their beets, and had been making their second run of sugar.

When the cows of J. C. Derby came up from the pasture in Jericho the other evening, it was noticed that among them was a good sized dog, which seemed contented to remain with the cows until it became frightened at the sight of a dog, when it gracefully left, going across the fields.

W. G. Elkins died at his home in North Troy, Tuesday evening in his 83rd year. He was among the ablest men in this section and for very many years had been prominent in town, county, local, and general affairs. He was state senator at one time, and held many offices.

Lyman Hutchins committed suicide April 8, at his home in Barre by cutting an artery in his left arm with a razor. Since the death of his wife in 1903, Mr. Hutchins had been very depressed, and this, with the development of a heart trouble the last few weeks, is thought to have been the motive for his act of self destruction.

A series of accidents seem to have occurred in the state the last week. Harry L. Gould, while working in his mill in North Windham, April 9, slipped and his left hand came in contact with the saw, cutting the two middle fingers off close to the hand. Mr. Currier had three fingers and the thumb on his left hand cut off on a circular saw, while at work in a Chester mill and Arthur Harlow cut his thumb nearly off while splitting wood in Westminster West.

The civic committee of the Woman's club of Rutland is doing a commendable work this spring in promoting the attainment of a "cleaner and more beautiful Rutland" by the distribution of 6000 packages of seed among the 1000 pupils in the public schools, who are identified with the Junior Civic League. These are to be used in home gardening and an exhibition, with prizes, will be held in September. A pledge has been taken by the children which, if carried out, will insure good citizenship and tend toward the beautifying of the city.

E. A. Fitts of East Brookfield owns a mastiff dog of an enormous size. The dog, "Pup," by name, will be three years old next month and tips the scales at 100 pounds and is still on the go. His hair is short, colored brown and tan, nimble as a kitten, good disposition and a voice that jars the eardrums. He has a neck so large that no collar will stay on. With intelligence that bids him open doors at will, he can generally be seen at his liberty. So confident is Mr. Fitts of his superiority in size, beauty and intelligence that he challenges New England for his equal.

Making a final examination of a barrel of rubbish before carrying it to the dump, Israel Osgood of St. Johnsbury found a treasure in a violin bearing the name of the late King George VI. In the violin he found this inscription: Leopold Withalms in Durnberg, in quality old English lettering. The instrument is in good condition and is thought to be a valuable one. It came into Mr. Osgood's possession through his uncle, E. C. Osgood, of Stannard, to whom it was given by some Boston acquaintance many years ago. The violin came to St. Johnsbury with some household goods of Mr. Osgood and after a time found its way to the rubbish barrel.

A Feast in Aviation.
Charles Friewall offers a prize of $500 for the aviator who remains stationary in the air over a given spot for the space of one minute. Sixty seconds does not sound a long time, and yet Mr. Friewall thinks the trouble to think it out is just long enough to make the attainment of gratification for the feat to be accomplished.—Westminster Gazette.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than in other places put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven, however, to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from two to four times a day. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case that will be cured. Send for circulars and testimonials. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists.

PROPOSES MAINE COMMISSION.
Spanish Paper for International Body to Pass on Cause of the Disaster.

Madrid, April 10.—El Pais, commenting upon the proposed raising of the United States battleship Maine, which sank in the harbor of Havana on the eve of the Spanish-American war, suggests that an examination of the wreck be made by a mixed commission of American, Spanish and French engineers, to determine the cause of the warship's destruction.

FIVE LABORERS KILLED.
Seven Others Severely Hurt in Explosion Near Roseville, N. J.

Newton, N. J., April 10.—Five slave laborers were killed and seven seriously injured Sunday, when thirty-five pounds of dynamite exploded prematurely near Roseville on the new out-of-the-Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad through the table lands to the riverbed of the Delaware.
